

Indigenous Organic Engagement and Consultation

Walter Smith B. Ed, M. Ed, MNDG, RSE

Why is Consultation and Engagement

Understanding each other better. Our shared history.

“We all must put down our ignorance and accidental racism, of not addressing the truth, that this country (Canada) had with Indigenous people,” Delorme said in response to the find of 751 unmarked graves. “We are not asking for pity, but we are asking for understanding.”

“We can’t control other people’s actions and we can’t control a system that is outdated, but what we can control is our thoughts and we can control our own actions,”

Chief Cadmus Delorme Cowessess First Nations

Organic and Intentional

Making up for lost time. Indigenous people did not choose to be under educated in western ways.

We did not choose the land on which we live. It was where we were created. A place, just for us, we educated ourselves, to live in balance with the bounty and beauty of that which was around us, and it was beautiful.

It was always our home.

Organic and Intentional

Section 35 of the Canadian Constitution

TRC, Calls to Action

MMIWG, Calls to Justice

UNDRIP, Principles

Duty to Consult Benefits - All

Pinehouse Model Why create an organic model

Pinehouse and Kineepik

Proof Required, A Rights Bearing Indigenous Community

Mapping and Research

The Way Forward Agreements Academic and Legal

With the Community growing in understanding organically towards a blended culture

Community Conscience

Awakening our Spirits

What is the process currently

Duty to Consult Sessions in Pinehouse

Questions

